

Your Litigation Reporting, All in One Place

Data is everywhere, but it lives in so many systems that legal teams struggle to get a clear view of what's happening across their matters. They can generate reports, build system-specific dashboards and export spreadsheets, but getting it all together into a clear, reliable view of what's actually happening takes time and interpretation.

CVUnity Control Center was built to change that. Developed by professionals who truly understand litigation, it brings reporting into a single control center structured around how legal teams manage case progress, workload and risk. Rather than forcing generic reporting tools to fit legal workflows, it reflects them from the start and is designed to solve the challenges our clients face every day.

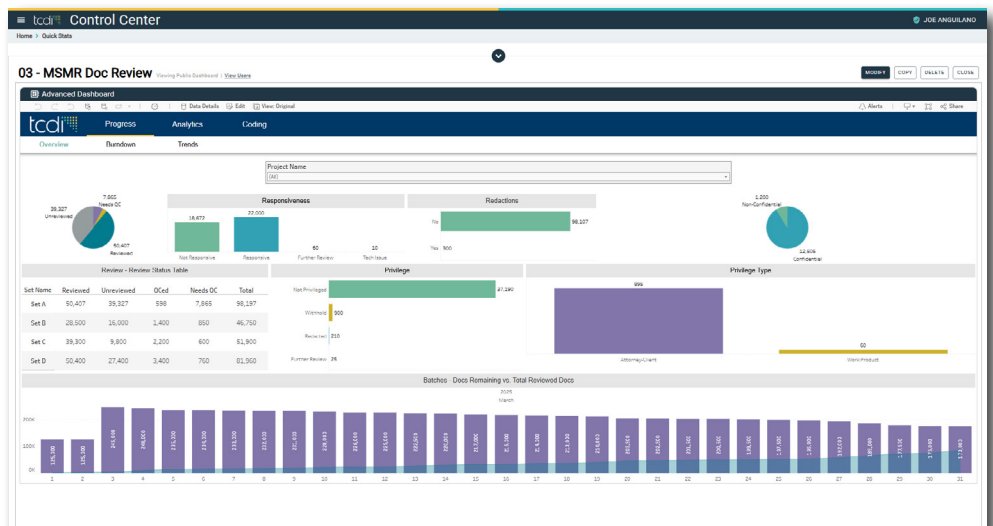

With CVUnity Control Center, You Get:

Experience Built into the View

This isn't a generic dashboard where you import legal data. It reflects 38 years of hands-on litigation service and technology experience combined with Lean Six Sigma methodologies, resulting in:

- Enhanced efficiency with metrics aligned to measurable process improvement
- Clear visibility into case progression, from collection through production
- Early indicators designed to surface risks and process breakdowns before they impact deadlines

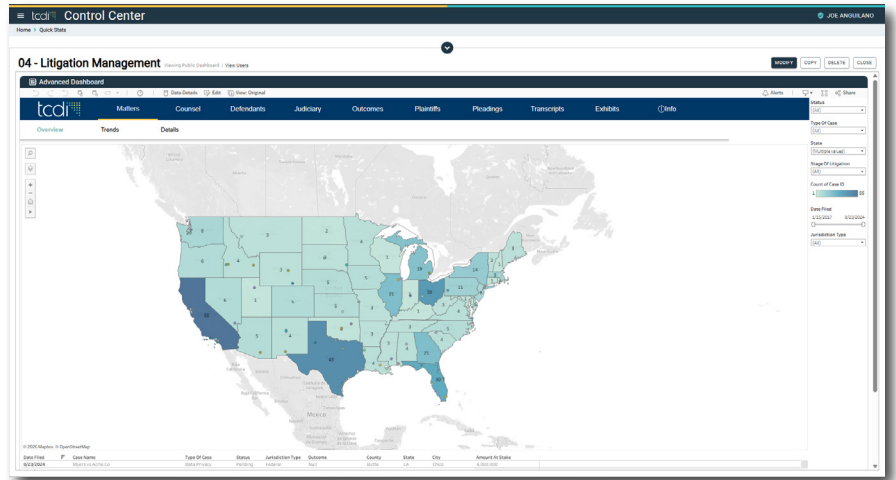

Data that Tells a Story

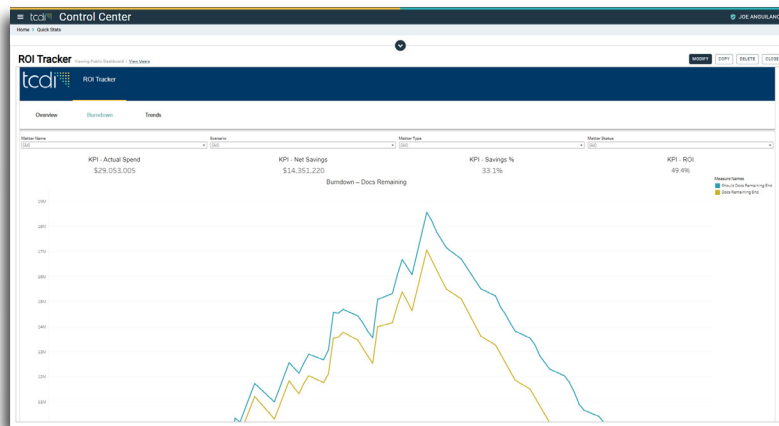

Pulling data together is one thing. Making it useful is another. You can choose from template dashboard pages created by our experts or create custom views to fit your needs. Either way, you gain:

- Clearer, faster understanding of where matters stand
- Earlier awareness of bottlenecks, workload strain and process gaps
- Reduced manual reconciliation across systems and platforms

The Right Information to the Right People

Data is only useful if it reaches the right people at the right time. By listening closely to our clients, we've developed CVUnity Control Center around how legal teams work every day, resulting in:

- Clear visibility into workload distribution, process consistency and emerging risk
- Less time spent validating numbers and more time making decisions
- Faster response times when timelines, resources, or matter demands shift

CVUnity is Built on a Strong Foundation

Trusted by clients since 1988

38
years

over

50%

Team members certified in LSS

over

500

Active clients across platforms

CVSuite adapting to industry demands

24
years

To Request More Information / uk.tcdi.com